

Report Says Pentagon Considers Deploying Ground Troops in Syria

Washington, February 17 (RHC)-- In the United States, a new report says that the Pentagon is considering a plan to deploy ground troops to Syria. According to CNN, the U.S. has already authorized up to 500 special operations forces in Syria, but the Pentagon plan under consideration would allow for a large conventional force.

the report says U.S. President Donald Trump has given Defense Secretary James Mattis until the end of the month to come up with a plan to fight ISIS.
