

Cuban Lawmakers Analyze Reports from Governmental Organizations

Havana, July 13 (RHC) -- Cuban lawmakers examined the management of the agencies of the central government, during a session prior to the Ninth Regular Session of the Eighth Legislature of Parliament.

Over the past several days, Cuban legislators have analyzed national topics. And at the ordinary session tomorrow, Friday, they will approve important economic documents.

In one of Wednesday's legislative debates, it was shown that the food industry is undergoing a gradual recovery, prioritizing the dairy and meat industries, given the financial, material and human difficulties of advancing in all areas.

The parliamentarians also examined the situation of the country's housing base and learned that the strategy to expand it will be strengthened. They also analyzed tourism in the first half of the year and its projection for 2018, and evaluated the experiences of non-agricultural cooperatives.
