

U.S. special counsel reportedly investigating Kushner's contact with foreign investors during transition

Washington, Feb 21 (RHC)-- CNN is reporting special counsel Robert Mueller has expanded his investigation into Trump's son-in-law and senior adviser, Jared Kushner. Mueller is now reportedly investigating Kushner's attempts to secure foreign investors and financing for Kushner Companies during the presidential transition period, when Kushner served as the primary point of contact between Trump and foreign governments.

Mueller is reportedly specifically looking at Kushner's meetings with Chinese, Russian and Qatari investors during the transition period.
