

British opposition leader urges Labour Party members to reject new Brexit deal

London, October 19 (RHC)-- British opposition leader Jeremy Corbyn said the Labour Party cannot support the Brexit deal.

Speaking to reporters in London, Corbyn said: "This is a day when the prime minister seems to have made a deal with the European Union which doesn't give us the complete freedom of movement between Britain and Northern Ireland, because it creates a customs union border down the Irish Sea. And secondly, it does nothing to deal with all the concerns that we've raised during Theresa May's premiership and his about a race to the bottom in rights and protections, and we believe the deal he's proposed is heading Britain in the direction of a deregulated society with the sell-off of national assets to American corporations."
