

Hundreds of activists protest at COP25 in Madrid

Madrid, December 12 (RHC)-- In Madrid, the Spanish capital, at COP25, the United Nations climate summit, hundreds of activists gathered outside the conference's main plenary halls to demand rich countries take more drastic action to address the climate crisis.

Activists report being pushed and forced out of the building by police and U.N. security. More than 300 protesters were forced outside. A number of them had their credentials temporarily removed.
