

Lawyers demand release of Chelsea Manning, held for refusing WikiLeaks testimony

Washington, February 21 (RHC)-- Lawyers for U.S. Army whistleblower Chelsea Manning filed a motion in federal court, asking for her release from a prison outside Washington, D.C., where she's been jailed since March of last year for refusing to cooperate in a federal grand jury investigation into WikiLeaks.

Chelsea Manning could be held as for as long as 18 months on contempt of court charges.
