

China approves two more clinical trials of potential coronavirus vaccines

Beijing, April 16 (RHC)-- China has approved clinical trials for two experimental vaccines against the novel coronavirus. Both Chinese research teams have skipped testing on laboratory animals and are fast-tracking tests on human subjects.

In the United States, human trials of a vaccine candidate began in Washington state last month. Top scientists at the World Health Organization caution it will be at least a year before any vaccine becomes widely available.

<https://www.radiohc.cu/en/noticias/internacionales/219895-china-aproves-two-more-clinical-trials-of-potential-coronavirus-vaccines>

Radio Habana Cuba