

New York court blocks publication of tell-all book by Donald Trump's niece

New York, July 2 (RHC)-- A New York judge has ordered a preliminary injunction against the publication of a tell-all book by Donald Trump's niece. In a statement, a lawyer for Mary Trump called the injunction a First Amendment violation and prior restraint on core political speech.

The book, titled "Too Much and Never Enough: How My Family Created the World's Most Dangerous Man," reportedly describes a "nightmare of traumas, destructive relationships, and a tragic combination of neglect and abuse" in the Trump family.
