

Mary Trump's book about her Uncle Donald breaks sales record

New York, July 17 (RHC)-- A tell-all book by President Trump's niece sold nearly one million copies Thursday on its first day of publication — a record for publisher Simon & Schuster.

In her book, titled “Too Much and Never Enough: How My Family Created the World’s Most Dangerous Man,” clinical psychologist Mary Trump describes her uncle Donald as a “sociopath” who grew up in a dysfunctional family that fostered his greed and cruelty.

On Thursday, Mary Trump told MSNBC host Rachel Maddow she’s heard her uncle repeatedly using racist language.
