

U.S. coronavirus deaths top 1,000 for fourth day in a row

Washington, July 31 (RHC)-- The daily U.S. death toll from COVID-19 continues to climb, with over 1,000 deaths reported nationwide Thursday for the fourth day in a row.

Florida recorded a new record death toll for the third straight day, with 253 new fatalities. Even as the outbreak flared to a new record high, officials in Miami-Dade County suspended all drive-thru and walk-in COVID-19 testing until next Tuesday, as tropical storm Isaias strengthened into a hurricane over the Caribbean and barreled toward southern Florida.

COVID-19 is now on track to become the third leading cause of death in the U.S. this year, after heart disease and cancer.

<https://www.radiohc.cu/en/noticias/internacionales/230287-us-coronavirus-deaths-top-1000-for-fourth-day-in-a-row>

Radio Habana Cuba