Santa Clara, Cuba, October 23 (RHC)-- Cuban President, Miguel Díaz-Canel, concludes this Friday his governmental visit to the central province of Villa Clara. He started the day by paying tribute to Commander Ernesto Che Guevara in the memorial that keeps his remains together with the fallen comrades in the Bolivian guerrilla.

The visit concludes with an analysis and summary by each of the ministries that have toured the region's productive, social, educational, and cultural areas.

On Thursday, the President and his delegation visited several cultural interest places in Santa Clara, the province's capital.

Earlier, they visited agricultural production centers, a newly constructed bioproduct plant, and educational centers.

At Central University, the Cuban head of state visited the small LC3 cement production plant and the chalk factory, resulting from the university's productive chain and the local mining industry.
