

Evo Morales will return to Bolivia on November 9th

La Paz, October 28 (RHC)-- Evo Morales will return to Bolivia on November 9th, after nearly one year as a refugee in Argentina, according to the vice president of the Six Federations of the Tropic of Cochabamba, Andrónico Rodríguez.

In an interview with teleSUR, the senator-elect from Cochabamba of the Movement Toward Socialism (MAS) said Evo Morales will arrive on Bolivian soil on that date, barely one day after the inauguration of the new president, Luis Arce.

Rodríguez also affirmed that Morales will go to Cochabamba on November 11, "the day he left, the same day he arrives, in the same place he left. It will be a historic day for us."

In November 2019, Evo Morales was deposed as president of Bolivia, after suffering a coup d'état, led by several politicians and high ranking officers of the Army and the Police.

Morales left the country for Mexico, although he later moved to Argentina, where he currently resides as a political refugee.
