

Gunmen kill at least 22 people in Kabul University raid

Image not found or type unknown

Gunmen kill at least 22 people in Kabul University raid. (Photo: teleSUR)

Kabul, November 3 (RHC)-- In Afghanistan, gunmen stormed Kabul University Monday, killing at least 22 people. The Islamic State claimed responsibility for the attack, although some, including Afghanistan's vice president, said the Taliban were to blame.

This is the latest deadly attack to hit Afghanistan as intra-Afghan peace talks continue in Qatar. On Tuesday, students came out to protest the ongoing violence. One student organizer said: "I came here today to protest against all this injustice. We want to raise our voices to the world and say that we will never give up and that no matter how much they try to kill us, we will continue our studies.”

<https://www.radiohc.cu/en/noticias/internacionales/238628-gunmen-kill-at-least-22-people-in-kabul-university-raid>

Radio Habana Cuba