

WHO warns coronavirus on the rise in African countries as vaccinations remain lowest in world

Geneva, March 29 (RHC)-- The World Health Organization warns COVID-19 cases are on the rise in at least 12 African nations and that a “third wave” could overwhelm already vulnerable health systems.

South Africa has suffered the greatest toll with over 52,000 deaths and over 1.5 million cases. Less than 1% of people living on the African continent have received a coronavirus vaccine.
