

Attorneys set to file criminal charges against Trump Organization

New York, June 28 (RHC)-- Lawyers for the Trump Organization must immediately present any final arguments on their client's behalf, according to a deadline of Monday set by the Manhattan District Attorney's Office.

The Manhattan DA is expected to announce criminal charges as early as this week against former President Trump's business over its financial dealings involving top executive Allen Weisselberg. Meanwhile, a former executive vice president for the Trump Organization told CNN Trump "deserves to go to jail."

In other Trump-related news, White House aides drafted a proclamation last June to invoke the Insurrection Act, as then-President Donald Trump considered deploying thousands of active-duty troops in Washington, D.C., to suppress the protests that followed the police killing of George Floyd.

According to The New York Times, Trump had to be talked out of the plan to invoke the Insurrection Act to call in the military, with many of his aides strongly opposed to putting military troops on the streets.
