

Conflict, climate crisis and COVID-19 cause sixfold rise in famine

Image not found or type unknown

Oxfam warns there has been a sixfold increase in people around the world facing famine-like conditions

London, July 13 (RHC)-- Oxfam warns there has been a sixfold increase in people around the world facing famine-like conditions since the start of the pandemic.

Conflict was the main driver behind the increase, exacerbated by the climate crisis and COVID-19's effect on the economy.

Meanwhile, the wealth of the 10 richest people grew by $413 billion last year — 11 times more than what is needed to fund the U.N.'s global humanitarian assistance.

<https://www.radiohc.cu/en/noticias/internacionales/263762-conflict-climate-crisis-and-covid-19-cause-sixfold-rise-in-famine>

Radio Habana Cuba