

U.S. ranks dead last for healthcare among 11 wealthy countries

The United States healthcare system once again ranks dead last among wealthy countries.

New York, August 6 (RHC)-- The United States healthcare system once again ranks dead last among wealthy countries. That's according to a new report by the Commonwealth Fund.

Researchers found the U.S. spends far more per capita than 10 other nations — Australia, Canada, France, Germany, Holland, New Zealand, Norway, Sweden, Switzerland and the U.K. — yet has the lowest life expectancy, highest infant and maternal mortality rates, and the most glaring inequities.

Congressional Progressive Caucus Chair Pramila Jayapal responded: “Our cruel, for-profit healthcare system is broken. ... It’s time to guarantee healthcare as a human right. It’s time for Medicare for All.”

<https://www.radiohc.cu/en/noticias/internacionales/266286-us-ranks-dead-last-for-healthcare-among-11-wealthy-countries>

Radio Habana Cuba