Greenpeace erects statue of Boris Johnson splattered in oil outside 10 Downing Street?

London, October 12 (RHC)-- In London, at least seven members of Greenpeace were arrested Monday after shutting down traffic outside 10 Downing Street by installing a 12-foot mock statue of British Prime Minister Boris Johnson splattered in oil.

Greenpeace is calling on the Johnson administration to halt plans to drill for oil off the Scottish coast in what's known as the Cambo oilfield.
