Washington, December 19 (RHC)-- U.S. President Joe Biden will deliver a speech on Tuesday addressing the Omicron variant of the coronavirus, NBC News reported over the weekend, citing a White House official.

Biden is expected to go beyond his “Winter Plan” with additional steps to help communities in need, the report said. Earlier, Vice President Kamala Harris admitted that the government “didn’t see Omicron coming.” “And that’s the nature of what this, this awful virus has been, which as it turns out, has mutations and variants,” she said.
