

U.S. warplanes carry out airstrikes and hit residential buildings in Syria

A U.S.-led airstrike in the northern Syrian city of Kobani, during fighting between Kurdish fighters from the People's Protection Units (YPG) and the Daesh Takfiri terrorists. (Photo by Getty Images)

Damascus, January 30 (RHC)-- U.S. warplanes have bombed a residential neighborhood in Syria's northeastern province of Hasakah, a week after remnants of the Daesh Takfiri terrorist group launched an armed attack on a detention center run by the Kurdish-led militants from the US-backed Syrian Democratic Forces (SDF).

Syria's official news agency SANA, citing local sources, reported that the fighter jets struck several houses in the vicinity of Industrial Secondary Prison in the provincial capital city of Hasakah city on Friday, under the flimsy pretext of hunting down terrorists currently at large after escaping the Kurdish-run Ghwayran jail.

The report added that the aerial strikes caused massive destruction in the targeted area, with no immediate information about the number of casualties. SANA noted that the US military airstrikes were coupled with home break-ins, which SDF members carried out in Aziziyah neighborhood of Hasakah city.

<https://www.radiohc.cu/en/noticias/internacionales/284487-us-warplanes-carry-out-airstrikes-and-hit-residential-buildings-in-syria>

Radio Habana Cuba