The Washington Post is reporting Ginni Thomas, the wife of Supreme Court Justice Clarence Thomas, pressed at least 29 Republican state lawmakers in Arizona to help overturn Joe Biden's victory in the state.

Washington, June 14 (RHC)-- The Washington Post is reporting Ginni Thomas, the wife of Supreme Court Justice Clarence Thomas, pressed at least 29 Republican state lawmakers in Arizona to help overturn Joe Biden's victory in the state.

Meanwhile, Trump's former personal attorney Rudy Giuliani is facing new ethics charges from the District of Columbia Bar for spreading lies about alleged voter fraud in an effort to overturn Biden's election victory in the state of Pennsylvania.

In related news, the U.S. House of Representatives committee investigating the January 6th Capitol insurrection held its second public hearing on Monday. Chris Stirewalt, a former top editor at Fox News, was scheduled to testify but canceled due to a family emergency.

During its first hearing last Thursday, the panel accused Donald Trump of staging an attempted coup in an effort to overturn the 2020 election.
