

Israeli forces attack Palestinians in occupied Nablus, injuring 37

Image not found or type unknown

Palestinians take part in an anti-occupation protest in the village of Beit Dajan, north of the occupied West Bank, on September 9, 2022. (Photo by Quds News Network)

Nablus, September 10 (RHC)--At least 37 Palestinian protesters have been injured when Israeli regime forces attacked the town of Beita and the village of Beit Dajan in the occupied West Bank province of Nablus. The Palestinian Red Crescent on Friday confirmed the occupation forces injured the Palestinians participating in the weekly peaceful protests against the regime.

The regime forces fired rubber-coated metal bullets, sound bombs, live ammunition and tear gas canisters to disperse the Palestinians. Israeli forces have recently stepped up deadly violence and suppression against the Palestinians taking part in peaceful protests.

The Tel Aviv regime faces growing resistance over its land-grab policy and demolition drive as anti-settlement sentiments run high in the occupied territories.

In late August, Israeli troops attacked protesters in several towns and villages near Qalqilia and Nablus. They also fired tear gas at anti-settlement protesters.

Between 600,000 and 750,000 Israelis occupy over 250 illegal settlements that have been built across the West Bank since the 1967 occupation. The settlements are all illegal under international law. The UN Security Council has in several resolutions condemned the Tel Aviv regime's illegal settlement projects in the occupied Palestinian lands.

<https://www.radiohc.cu/en/noticias/internacionales/298860-israeli-forces-attack-palestinians-in-occupied-nablus-injuring-37>

Radio Habana Cuba