The U.S. House of Representatives January 6 committee has interviewed far-right activist Ginni Thomas about her efforts to help Donald Trump overturn his 2020 election defeat to Joe Biden.

Washington, October 3 (RHC)-- The U.S. House of Representatives January 6 committee has interviewed far-right activist Ginni Thomas about her efforts to help Donald Trump overturn his 2020 election defeat to Joe Biden.

The wife of Supreme Court Justice Clarence Thomas spent more than four hours testifying to lawmakers behind closed doors on Capitol Hill. Committee Chair Bennie Thompson said afterward that Thomas had repeated her false claims about a stolen election, while denying she'd discussed her efforts to overturn Biden's win with her husband, Clarence Thomas.

Justice Thomas is the only member of the court who dissented in the Supreme Court's 8-1 decision that led to the release of White House documents around January 6th.

Clarence Thomas refused to recuse himself in the case, leading many Democrats to call for his impeachment.
