During the pleasant exchange, held at the Convention Palace, the head of state thanked the high-ranking official and the organization she heads for their support and cooperation with our country.

For her part, the visitor, who attended the inauguration of the IV International Convention 'Cuba-Health 2022' the day before, thanked Díaz-Canel in a special way for being a great friend of PAHO during all this time. In that sense, she acknowledged the contributions of the largest Antillean island during the decade-long term of his mandate in the organization.

"More than a membership, it has been a kind of partnership between PAHO and Cuba," she said.
