The duel between the leader and local Agricultores and its closest pursuer Tabacaleros, at the Julio Antonio Mella stadium in Tuna, will fulfill the highest expectations when the twelfth particular sub-series of the First Elite League of Cuban Baseball starts on Tuesday

Havana, November 29 (RHC)-- The duel between the leader and local Agricultores and its closest pursuer Tabacaleros, at the Julio Antonio Mella stadium in Tuna, will fulfill the highest expectations when the twelfth particular sub-series of the First Elite League of Cuban Baseball starts today.

The Agricultores, who lead the standings with 19 wins and nine losses, are leaders in batting (297) and second in defense (981), digits that allow them to show a comfortable four-game lead over Tabacaleros (15-13), the other team that works for an average above 500.

Meanwhile, the tobacco boys are third in pitching (3.51) and defense (978). For today, the hosts will start with César García from Granma, while his opponent will be the right-hander Jonathan Carbó from Pinar del Río.

Meanwhile, at the Augusto César Sandino Park in Villaclareño, the local team Centrales will receive Ganaderos. Eriel Castillo will pitch for Centrales and his opponent will be José Eduardo Santos.

Finally, at the Latin American Park, the host and defender Portuarios will host Cafetaleros in a duel between the experienced Santiago native Danny Betancourt and the young Pavel Hernández, a member of the Cuba team that will compete in the upcoming Caribbean Cup in Bahamas 2022.

As for the individual leaders, the hitters are led by Pavel Quesada (CEN, 404) from Cienfuegos, and the right-hander Yander Guevara (GAN), from Avileña, is the pitcher with the best average of clean runs.
