Badminton

Cuban male badminton player Osleni Guerrero will debut against Japanese Sho Sasaki in the 1st round of the World Championship Copenhagen 2014, from August 25th to 31st, organizers announced.

Guerrero, 46th in the world ranking, his best historical position on this list and best Latin-American racket, will have a tough opponent in Sasaki, seeded 15th in the tournament.

This will be the 2nd appearance of the Cuban player in universal contests, time in which he will try to improve his performance in the previous edition held in Guangzhou, China, when he lost in the 1st round before Spanish Paul Abián with partial scores of 14-21 and 21-23.

According to Roberto Moyinedo, head coach of the Cuban team, the Caribbean player could win the 1st game, but he stressed that the main thing is to compete, do it well and play at the highest level.

For the coach, the Cuban player lacks most often to have opponents from Asia and Europe, to further enhance his quality on the courts.

Before his incursion into the World Championship, Guerrero competed in the Grand Prix of Brazil, played this month and reached up to the semifinals, taking a creditable 3rd place that shows his improvement.
