

Raúl Castro arrives in Venezuela to pay tribute to Hugo Chávez

Raul Castro

Caracas, Mar 4 (RHC) The historic leader of the Cuban Revolution, Raúl Castro, heads a high-level delegation that arrived this Saturday in Venezuela to pay tribute to Commander Hugo Chávez (1954-2013), 10 years after his physical departure.

At the Simón Bolívar International Airport of Maiquetía, in the State of La Guaira, the sectoral Vice-President of Science, Technology, Education, and Health, Gabriela Jiménez, welcomed the visitors.

The Cuban Army General arrived accompanied by the Commander of the Revolution and Deputy Prime Minister, Ramiro Valdés, Prime Minister Manuel Marrero, and Foreign Minister Bruno Rodríguez.

Also, this Saturday, former Bolivian President Evo Morales (2006-2019) arrived in Venezuela to join the commemorative activities, in which more than a hundred personalities and intellectuals from all continents are present.

Also arriving in Caracas to participate in the tributes to Chavez, were the former Honduran President Manuel Zelaya (2006-2009), Xiomara Zelaya, President of the Regional Relations and Integration Commission, and Gerardo Torres Zelaya, Vice Chancellor of Foreign Policy.

Yesterday and today, national and foreign guests participated in the World Meeting for the Validity of the Bolivarian leader's Thought, at the Teresa Carreño Theater, where they highlighted the validity and imprint of the so-called Eternal Commander. (Source: PL)

<https://www.radiohc.cu/en/noticias/nacionales/315637-raul-castro-arrives-in-venezuela-to-pay-tribute-to-hugo-chavez>

Radio Habana Cuba