

Panamanian Copa Airlines to Operate in Villa Clara Keys

Havana, August 29 (RHC) — New flights to Cuba of Copa Airlines will connect, as of December, almost 20 cities of Latin America with the keys of the northern part of central Villa Clara province.

The first of these new flights will arrive to this tourist area in December, with two weekly frequencies (Tuesdays and Saturdays), informed on Thursday Monica Montes, Promotion Assistant of the Spanish hotel chain Melia on the island.

The Panamanian international airline, which already has daily flights to Havana, selected an E-190 aircraft of 100 seats for operations to the keys Ensenachos, Las Brujas and Santa Maria, united to the town of Caibarien by a 48-kilometer causeway.

The specialist recalled that the Spanish chain administers four hotels in that destination, the Melia Buenavista All Inclusive Royal Service and Spa, the Melia Cayo Santa Maria, the Melia Las Dunas, and Sol Cayo Santa Maria.

Clients will also be able to enjoy excursions to the cities of Havana, Santa Clara, Sancti Spiritus or Trinidad, added Montes.
