

Spanish singer Rozalén announces concert in Cuba's National Theater

Photo: Juventud Rebelde.

Havana, May 8 (RHC)-- Spanish singer Rozalén announced on her social networks that she will perform a concert at Cuba's National Theater as part of the Cubadisco 2023 International Fair.

The event, considered the biggest disco party in our country, will be held until May 14 at several venues in Havana and some provinces of the country.

Visiting Havana, Rozalén, invited to Cubadisco 2023, expressed her joy for the reception she received in this capital, where she is playing for the first time. The artist's Facebook post is accompanied by images next to the old classic cars in some areas near the Capitol and Old Havana.

María de los Ángeles Rozalén Ortuño is a singer-songwriter and composer born in Albacete and is considered one of the main voices of the new singer-songwriter, as well as a social activist.

She accumulates in her career great awards, among them, four Gold Records, two Platinum Records, a Goya Award (for best original song), the Premio Nacional de Música Actuales 2021, as well as three Latin Grammy nominations and the Placa al Mérito Profesional de Castilla-La Mancha (Plaque of Professional Merit of Castilla-La Mancha).

In his concerts he is usually accompanied by Beatriz Romero, sign language interpreter, in order to defend an inclusive show for everyone.

His latest album is entitled Matriz and was released in 2022 with great success in several Spanish cities.

<https://www.radiohc.cu/en/noticias/cultura/322081-spanish-singer-rozalen-announces-concert-in-cubas-national-theater>

Radio Habana Cuba