

Presidents of Cuba and Bolivia hold meeting in Havana

Photo: Estudios Revolución
Published 1 July 2023

Havana, July 2 (RHC)-- Cuban President Miguel Díaz-Canel and Bolivian President Luis Arce Catacora held a meeting in Havana on Saturday as part of a working visit to Cuba at the invitation of the Cuban Head of State.

In an atmosphere of friendship, both presidents reviewed issues on the bilateral agenda to boost cooperation in areas that had been defined by both during the official visit made by Arce in December 2021. Díaz-Canel thanked the Bolivian leader for the recent donation of food sent by his country in support of the populations affected by the heavy rains recorded during the month of June in eastern Cuba.

According to the website of the Presidency of Cuba, Foreign Minister Bruno Rodríguez Parrilla also participated in the meeting on the Cuban side.

Arce arrived in Cuba in the early hours of Saturday morning. Through Twitter, the head of Cuban diplomacy said: "We received on a working visit the president of the Plurinational State of Bolivia, brother Lucho, who was invited by President Diaz-Canel to continue exchanging on bilateral and international issues."

Diaz-Canel thanked Arce for the food donation sent by Bolivia to help Cuban populations affected by heavy rains. | Photo: Estudios Revolución
Published 1 July 2023

Radio Habana Cuba