

Cuban prime minister receives his Djibouti counterpart

Havana, September 12 (RHC) -- Cuban Prime Minister Manuel Marrero Cruz received Tuesday at the Palace of the Revolution, his counterpart from Djibouti, Abdoukader Kamil Mohamed, on an official visit to Havana to participate in the G77 and China summit.

In his profile on the social network X, formerly Twitter, Marrero Cruz reported the meeting held with the head of government of the African nation, who several days ago had confirmed his attendance to the high-level segment of the integrating bloc.

Kamil Mohamed and his accompanying delegation confirmed, together with his Cuban counterpart, the excellent state of bilateral relations.

At the same time, both parties ratified their interest in further strengthening ties between the two nations.
