

British prime minister fires Home Secretary Suella Braverman who called pro-Palestinian marches Hate Crimes

London, November 13 (RHC)-- In Britain, Prime Minister Rishi Sunak has fired hard-right Home Secretary Suella Braverman after she called protests for Palestinian rights “hate marches” and published an op-ed last week accusing the London police force of using “double standards” in dealing with protesters against the war.

Braverman was accused of fomenting right-wing hatred. In a surprising move, Rishi Sunak has brought back former Prime Minister David Cameron to act as foreign secretary amid a wider cabinet reshuffle.

<https://www.radiohc.cu/en/noticias/internacionales/339204-british-prime-minister-fires-home-secretary-suella-braverman-who-called-pro-palestinian-marches-hate-crimes>

Radio Habana Cuba