

59th edition of Prensa Latina Sports Poll opens

Havana, November 30 (PL) - The 59th edition of the traditional Prensa Latina Sports Poll opens its curtain today, to choose the best athletes and teams of Latin America and the Caribbean in the 2023 season.

Starting this Thursday, all the world's media will be able to participate in the voting and cast their votes in the three categories: Best Male Athlete, Best Female Athlete and Best Team.

The deadline for submitting ballots will be open until December 21, and one day later, the results will be announced at a press conference at the headquarters of the Prensa Latina news agency.

The media, in all its variants -radio, television, written press, agencies, digital portals-, will be able to send their selections to the mail deportes@prensa-latina.cu, from where the general voting will be compiled.

All the media included in the Prensa Latina Sports Poll will vote on equal terms and will be able to choose any athlete from Latin America and the Caribbean (even if he/she does not appear in the list with proposals that we offer at the end of the article).

It is worth remembering that these votes of the Latin American agency were born in 1964, and the first winner was the Cuban sprinter Enrique Figuerola.

Among the men, the top winner of titles is the mythical Jamaican sprinter Usain Bolt (6), followed by the Cuban prince of heights Javier Sotomayor (5), while among women the legendary Colombian jumper Caterine Ibargüen (5) is the owner of the most titles.

If we make a list of the most illustrious winners we could mention, among many others, besides Bolt, Sotomayor and Ibargüen, Diego Armando Maradona, Lionel Messi, Teófilo Stevenson, Alberto Juantorena, Ayrton Senna, Ana Fidelia Quirot, Mireya Luis, Iván Pedroso, Sammy Sosa, Ronaldo Nazario, Ronaldinho Gaucho, Félix Sánchez or Yulimar Rojas.

Below, we offer a sort of proposals put together by Prensa Latina's Sports editorial staff, with several of the most dazzling athletes in the 2023 campaign:
