

Venezuelan President ratifies commitment to dialogue with all sectors of the country

Caracas, January 27 (RHC)-- Venezuelan President Nicolás Maduro ratified this Friday his commitment to continue dialoguing with all sectors of the country, despite destabilization attempts by right-wing sectors.

During episode number six of Maduro Podcast, together with first combatant Cilia Flores, the head of state affirmed that "despite them, Venezuela will continue forward in peace, with effort, in integral recovery."

"We will continue with something vital in our life which is dialogue, social dialogue, human dialogue, listening first of all to our people, it is the first thing, dialogue with all business sectors to continue working for the development of the productive forces, dialogue with all political sectors, with everyone, of that democratic opposition that respects the Constitution (...), dialogue with the true civil society that exists."

The Bolivarian leader assured that nothing and no one will divert them from the path of dialogue and consensus building, while he clarified that it was the extremist opposition that has "broken the Barbados

Agreement by being involved in five conspiracies."

Furthermore, he ratified that they will continue to devote their energy, mind and life "every day to the ordinary people, who are worth everything and worth a thousand times more than any of these last names, any of these extremists."

The Venezuelan leader also commented that the real plan of the extremist sector of the opposition is violence and the assault to power.

"They are the same. They put on a name, Coordinadora Democrática; they put on a name, Mesa de la Unidad Democrática, la manito, la última cola; they put on a name, Plataforma de la Unidad de Venezuela, la PUV, they are the same last names, they are simply true mercenaries of foreign imperialist interests against our country, against Venezuela (...) They always act with a double face, the real plan underneath: violence, assassination, coup, attack, assault to power," he highlighted.

President Maduro guaranteed that they will maintain peace in the country and will continue to move forward with a firm step, through our strategies, for the recovery of the social welfare state.

The head of state commented on some of the conspiracies and attempts against peace that have been experienced in the country during the last 20 years, such as "the economic war in all its forms during different years, the internal political war, the psychological war, to bring society to a level of confrontation, of schizophrenia; to what they call in their dogfighting manuals, I always found that concept horrible (...) used to chaoticize countries."

For his part, the president of the National Assembly (AN), Deputy Jorge Rodríguez, stated during the program that the Venezuelan people have been "an experimental field for all forms of multidimensional warfare".

In this regard, he commented that these are strategies that have been applied in the so-called "Color Revolutions" and that mainly involve working on the mind, psychology and customs of a given society. "In Venezuela they have failed thunderously (...) they have tried it over and over again," said Rodríguez.

The president of the National Assembly recalled that in three years, they have made at least some 20 substantiated complaints about serious acts against the stability and peace of the South American nation, including assassination attempts, psychological warfare operations, sabotage against the electrical system, attempted assassination of leaders of the Bolivarian Revolution, coup attempts, among others.

"They are very worried about the level of recovery of our economy, the progress in the recovery of the welfare state, so they want to return again to the anxiety, the anguish, the uneasiness, the discomfort of the population," he said.
