

Israeli airstrike kills daughter, grandson and son-in-law of acclaimed poet Refaat Alareer

Gaza City, April 29 (RHC)-- An Israeli airstrike in Gaza City has killed the daughter and grandson of the prominent Palestinian poet Refaat Alareer, who was killed in an Israeli airstrike in December.

Shaima Refaat Alareer was killed along with her husband and 2-month-old son.

Shaima had recently written a message on Facebook addressed to her late father, writing: "I have a beautiful news for you, I wish I could convey it to you while you are in front of me, I present to you your first grandchild. Do you know, my father, that you have become a grandfather? This is your grandson Abd al-Rahman whom I have long imagined you carrying, but I never imagined that I would lose you early even before you see him."

The website Electronic Intifada reports Shaima Refaat Alareer and her family were killed while sheltering in the building of Global Communities, an international relief charity.
