

Billionaires and execs urged New York City mayor to send in police at Columbia University's Gaza Encampment

Image not found or type unknown

New York, May 18 (RHC)-- The Washington Post reports a group of billionaires and business interests privately pressured New York City Mayor Eric Adams to deploy police on pro-Palestinian protests at Columbia University.

A WhatsApp group with some of the country's wealthiest people detailed donations to Adams's campaign and conversations with the mayor.

Some of those involved include real estate magnate Barry Sternlicht; Daniel Lubetzky, founder of the Kind Snacks brand; hedge fund manager Daniel Loeb; and founder of Thor Equities, Joseph Sitt.

<https://www.radiohc.cu/en/noticias/internacionales/355050-billionaires-and-execs-urged-new-york-city-mayor-to-send-in-police-at-columbia-universitys-gaza-encampment>

Radio Habana Cuba