

Venezuela's interior minister details a right-wing plot to attack the Argentinian embassy in Caracas

Image not found or type unknown

▪
Diosdado Cabello during the interview with teleSUR. Photo: teleSUR English

Caracas, September 15 (RHC)-- During a special interview with teleSUR, Venezuelan Interior Minister Diosdado Cabello said foreign agents planned a false flag attack against the Argentinian embassy in Caracas.

"It would be easy to throw grenades at the Argentina's Embassy, having a citizens group housed there, citizens of the Vente Venezuela party who are refugees, all of them accused of terrorist acts," Cabello said.

The Minister argued that the purpose of those terrorist actions were to blame the Venezuelan government. "The objective was to blame Venezuela, our government for the attack."

After they received that information, Venezuela reinforced security at the embassy because such an action could create serious diplomatic tension between the two countries.

"This aggression is not the first against Venezuela, but I think the size is superior this time. It is the first time we have detained an active duty member of the U.S. military, heading this operation," under the instructions of the Central Intelligence Agency, the CIA.

[SOURCE: teleSUR]

<https://www.radiohc.cu/en/noticias/internacionales/365185-venezuelas-interior-minister-details-a-right-wing-plot-to-attack-the-argentinian-embassy-in-caracas>

Radio Habana Cuba