

Report reveals Israel recruiting African refugees in Gaza war in exchange for residency status

Image not found or type unknown

Ethiopian Damas Pakada, who has been recruited by the Israeli regime forces to kill Palestinians in the Gaza Strip, says he faces discrimination, racial prejudice and social inequalities due to his skin color. (Photo by Israeli Occupant Forces)

Tel Aviv, September 16 (RHC)-- The Israeli regime is recruiting African asylum seekers to kill Palestinians in the Israeli genocidal war on the Gaza Strip in exchange for permanent residency status, according to a report.

The report, published by the Israeli paper Haaretz on Sunday, revealed that the project is conducted in an organized manner, with the guidance of military establishment legal advisers.

In Gaza, the death toll passes 41,200 with close to 100,000 more injured in almost a year since the Israeli regime forces launched their genocidal war. However, the continued violence is prompting some Jewish Israelis to leave the occupied Palestinian land.

To make up for the loss, Tel Aviv is offering the incentive of permanent residency status to asylum seekers who agree to join the Israeli regime forces ongoing genocide in Gaza.

Haaretz has learned that some people have expressed objections to the practice, arguing that it exploits people who have fled their countries due to war. However, according to those sources, these voices have been silenced.

“This is a very problematic matter,” one source was quoted as saying by Haaretz.

According to the report, there are currently some 30,000 African asylum seekers living in the occupied territories, most of them young men. Around 3,500 are Sudanese citizens with temporary status granted by the court because the regime has not processed and ruled on their applications.

Unnamed sources who spoke with Haaretz also revealed that while there were some inquiries about granting status to asylum seekers who assisted in the genocidal war in Gaza, none were actually given status.

Haaretz also learned that the Interior Ministry explored the possibility of drafting the children of asylum seekers, who were educated in schools in the occupied territories, into the Israeli military.

In the past, the regime allowed the children of foreign workers to serve in the military in exchange for granting status to their immediate family members. African refugees, who came to the occupied territories seeking asylum, were previously kept in internment camps and deported without their own consent.

<https://www.radiohc.cu/en/noticias/internacionales/365252-report-reveals-israel-recruiting-african-refugees-in-gaza-war-in-exchange-for-residency-status>

Radio Habana Cuba