Havana, November 4 (RHC) -- Cuban President Miguel Díaz-Canel remains attentive to the meteorological situation over the archipelago and its possible evolution.

On his account on the social network X, the dignitary stated, this Sunday, that he has been in communication with the provinces to learn about the measures they adopt, in time, in order to avoid loss of human life and material.

"I insist to the authorities: permanent communication with our people, through all possible means," he emphasized.

For its part, the account on the same platform of the Presidency of the Republic reports, today, that the Institute of Meteorology makes available a telephone number where you can stay informed about the meteorological situation in Cuba.

“The maximum will always be to be informed, prepared and alert,” the message states.

In the face of this difficult meteorological situation, national media, official social media profiles and telephone lines are used to ensure constant information to the population.

All citizens are called to comply with the instructions given by local authorities and Civil Defense. (Source: @DiazCanelB and @PresidenciaCuba)
