

Venezuela rejects G7 statements on electoral process

Caracas, November 27 (RHC)-- The Venezuelan Government on Tuesday categorically rejected the statement issued by the G7 on the electoral and political process of the South American country.

Through a statement issued by the Foreign Ministry, Venezuela denounces that the G7 is "a group of powers that insists on believing itself to be the arbiter of global democracy while covering up its own political, economic and moral failures, supporting genocides and encouraging the spread of Nazi and fascist ideology in Europe and the world."

The document indicates that it is ironic how the same countries that in 2019 recognized Juan Guaidó as president, now seek to give lessons related to the popular will and the electoral processes in Venezuela.

«They try, from the colonialist and imperialist complex, to prepare the ground to ignore the institutions and decisions of the Venezuelan people with the fantasy of a Guaidó 2.0 that will once again crash against the dignity of the heirs of Simón Bolívar,» stated the document.

Likewise, the Bolivarian Government warned the G7 that its attitude, which it describes as interventionist and arrogant, will not go unanswered.

«Venezuela will proceed to comprehensively review its relations with each of the governments that make up this group, because respect for national sovereignty is not negotiable,» it detailed.

The document strongly emphasizes that the South American country will not accept more tutelage, because the nation is free and will continue to be so.
