

The ghost of famine is here: Al-Mawasi soup kitchen strives to feed thousands in southern Gaza

Khan Younis, December 6 (RHC)-- In southern Gaza, the director of a soup kitchen in al-Mawasi, in Khan Younis, says many families rely solely on one meal per day from his operation, after the World Central Kitchen paused its Gaza distributions following an Israeli airstrike that killed three of its workers last weekend.

Hani Abou al-Qassem: “Now the ghost of famine is beginning to appear here in the southern Gaza Strip. These families can’t afford even the low-priced materials and have no source of food except from this charity. Families are relying on this soup kitchen as their only means, as they found their haven in it. Currently, we are serving more than 800 families, equivalent to approximately 4,000 people.”

[SOURCE: DEMOCRACY NOW]

<https://www.radiohc.cu/en/noticias/internacionales/371432-the-ghost-of-famine-is-here-al-mawasi-soup-kitchen-strives-to-feed-thousands-in-southern-gaza>

Radio Habana Cuba