In his message, Maduro highlighted that 2025 will be a key year to advance the "Simón Bolívar National Project" and the Seven Transformations (7T) plan, focused on economic recovery and the strengthening of the Social Welfare State. "We are entering a new stage to consolidate a society of free men and women, based on the values of socialism and Christ the Redeemer," he expressed.

The re-elected president also emphasized the importance of civic-military and police unity to guarantee peace and confront threats against the country.
