

Belize Prime Minister to Attend CARICOM-Cuba Summit

Havana, December 3 (RHC) -- Caribbean Community leaders, including the Prime Minister of Belize, Dean Barrow, will gather in Havana next Monday for the Fifth CARICOM-Cuba summit.

During the summit, regional leaders will look to deepen Cuba's economic and trade relations with the countries of CARICOM and furthering cooperation several areas including education and culture.

Observers are upbeat about a positive outcome of next week's summit, given ever closer relationship between Cuba and regional partners.

Also on the agenda for discussions at the summit are issues of common interest relating to regional health cooperation, particularly Ebola.
