

Israeli Forces Kill Another Palestinian in West Bank

Ramallah, December 30 (RHC)-- Israeli forces have shot at least one Palestinian teenager dead in the occupied West Bank in the Tel Aviv regime's latest act of aggression against Palestinians. The teenager was killed in the town of Beit Ummar, located near the city of Hebron, while two others were injured there by Israeli forces on Monday. One of the wounded was shot in the head and is said to be in critical condition.

The violence came shortly after another young Palestinian was shot to death and another suffered gunshot wounds when Israeli soldiers opened fire on them southeast of the occupied West Bank city of Nablus, on Monday.

The Palestinian Center for Human Rights reported on December 23rd that Israeli forces carried out systematic attacks against Palestinians and their properties in the occupied Palestinian territories between December 11th and the 17th.

The report further revealed that Israeli soldiers used excessive force against peaceful demonstrations organized by Palestinian civilians and international human rights activists in protest at Israel's settlement activities in the West Bank.
