

50,000 Gallons of Oil Spill into Yellowstone River in U.S. State of Montana

Washington, January 21 (RHC)-- In the U.S. state of Montana, crews have been struggling to clean up an oil spill in the partially frozen Yellowstone River.

The Bridger Pipeline company has acknowledged 50,000 gallons of oil spilled from a burst pipeline. Residents have reported an oily taste in their drinking water, and an oil sheen has been spotted nearly 60 miles downstream.

<https://www.radiohc.cu/en/noticias/internacionales/44257-50000-gallons-of-oil-spill-into-yellowstone-river-in-us-state-of-montana>

Radio Habana Cuba