

Diana Fuentes Scheduled to Tour Cuba with Planeta Planetario

The most recent album by renowned young Cuban singer, Diana Fuentes, will be promoted with concerts on the island as of February 28th.

The concerts itinerary begins at the Principal Theater in the city of Cárdenas in Matanzas province on Sunday, February 28th, followed by a concert at the House of Music in the central city of Trinidad in Sancti Spiritus province on March 1st. Fuentes will be offering her music at La Caridad Theater in central Santa Clara on March 2, at the Terry in South-central Cienfuegos on the 4th, at the House of Music in Varadero beach resort on the 6th, at the Milanés Theater in western Pinar del Río on the 7th, winding up in Havana's El Sauce Cultural Center on the 13th. The album is being commercialized on the island by EGREM, Cuba's most important recording company and seal.

During the tour, the young singer and her musicians, including her husband Eduardo Cabra, the so called "Visitante" or Visitor from the Puerto Rican group Calle 13, will exchange ideas with provincial arts school students, focusing on their music approach. Fuentes has been absent from Cuban stages for a number of years after marrying one of the members of Calle Trece and having a baby.

Following her concerts in Cuba, the young Cuban singer will promote her album Planeta Planetario in Latin America and the United States. After that Diana Fuentes will be on hand at the Les Voix Humaines Festival organized by Cuban maestro Leo Brouwer, from September 25th through October 18th.
