

Snowden Docs Reveal Canada's Mass Collection of Email

Ottawa, February 26 (RHC)-- Documents leaked by Edward Snowden have revealed the Canadian government is stashing millions of its own citizens' e-mails.

Under a massive cybersecurity operation revealed jointly by the CBC and The Intercept, Canada has monitored visits to government websites and collected emails to the government at a rate of 400,000 per day, sometimes keeping the data for years.

<https://www.radiohc.cu/en/noticias/internacionales/47847-snowden-docs-reveal-canadas-mass-collection-of-email>

Radio Habana Cuba