

ISIL Claims New Villages in Western Iraq

Ramadi, April 16 (RHC)-- In Iraq, the self-proclaimed Islamic State has gained new ground, claiming several villages near Ramadi, the capital of Anbar province.

The takeover of at least three new villages poses ISIL's greatest threat to date against Ramadi, which lies about 70 miles west of the capital Baghdad.

<https://www.radiohc.cu/en/noticias/internacionales/52925-isil-claims-new-villages-in-western-iraq>

Radio Habana Cuba