

Nigeria: Scores killed in Jos in attacks blamed on Boko Haram

Abuja, July 6, (RHC), – Emergency services rushed to retrieve the injured after suspected Islamist militants killed at least 44 people in attacks on a restaurant and mosque in the central Nigerian city of Jos.

Though no one has claimed responsibility, the violence bore the hallmarks of Boko Haram insurgents, who have been stepping up attacks over the last week.

The latest attacks appear to be in response to the so-called Islamic State group's call to step up military operations during Ramadan. In recent days more than 200 people have been killed. Boko Haram has sworn allegiance to the ISIL group.
