

New Cuba-European Union Round on September 9th and 10th in Havana

Brussels, September 2 (RHC) -- The European Union and Cuba will hold the next round of negotiations for an agreement on political dialogue and cooperation on the 9th and 10th of September in Havana, European sources reported Wednesday.

The last round was held in mid-June in Brussels, with some productive discussions, while progress was made in aspects of economic and trade cooperation.

In late June, the European Union and Cuba held its first meeting on human rights in Brussels to identify areas of potential cooperation between the two partners and agreed to continue meeting once a year.
